Vaccines, Variants, & The Way Forward

The COVID-19 pandemic has wreaked havoc for nearly two years, taking over 800,000 lives across the nation and leaving no one unaffected. The highly effective vaccines have offered hope to bring the virus under control, however low vaccination rates and the emergence variants have slowed progress. What remains to be done to make you and your family safe and bring the pandemic to an end? The Anthony Bowen YMCA in partnership with the Black Coalition Against COVID-19 has brought together a panel of medical experts to answer your questions and address your concerns.
